

The Green Moon

It's a clear fact that the human species is heading towards an overcrowded planet rapidly. Therefore the economy should not be aimed at making profit, a widely criticized vision, but at creating living space for the human kind with respect for mother nature.

The perspective of a green moon, where human life is made possible, is not only a next step for our civilization that might prove to be an existential leap for mankind, it's also a daring plan that generates peace, hope, unity and improvement for the world we live in right now.

